Welcome to the History section of the Coeur d’Alene Police Department web site.

It is important for any public service organization to remain focused on our commitment to public safety and service to the public.

Part of our never ending effort to remain responsive to the needs of the community is the pride and honor that an agency displays.

In order to change with the future demands and changes in our society it is important to remember and honor our past.

Much can be learned about a department’s commitment to its citizens and its mission by its history.

I hope that you will find this presentation interesting and informative.

This is an ongoing project that will continue to capture our past and present and allow our citizens to understand the culture and history of law enforcement.

On behalf of the women and men of the Coeur d’Alene Police Department thank you for your support and community involvement.

Chief Wayne M. Longo
The City of Coeur d'Alene began as a military post in the late 1870s when Camp Coeur d'Alene, later renamed Fort Sherman, was established to provide safety for the settlers traveling west.

When gold was discovered in 1878, many settlers arrived in the area. Steamboat traffic flourished on Lake Coeur d'Alene where the lakes and rivers were used to transport supplies to mining and lumber camps and move logs to the mill. The city also became a popular tourist destination bringing hundreds of Spokane, Washington residents by electric train to enjoy the parks, beaches and boat excursions.

The town's founding fathers soon realized law enforcement was essential to the growth and development of the community; and in 1887, the Coeur d'Alene Police Department was established. The first Town Marshal, Warren Baldwin, was hired in 1887; and by 1904, the first Chief of Police, Patrick McGovern, was appointed.

Nine Chiefs later, the Coeur d'Alene Police Department has flourished to more than 92 employees who provide a wide range of services to the residents and visitors of our city.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

TO THE POLICE OFFICERS OF COEUR D'ALENE, IDAHO.

In addition to the verbal instructions that have been or will be given you from time to time, you will please consider the following instructions as standing orders; your special attention to and strict compliance with these instructions is required.

Officers while on duty will confine themselves so far as practicable to the territory embraced within the fire limits, this territory constituting two beats, the dividing line of which is 3rd St. Except when there is good reason for doing otherwise, officers will remain separated and within their respective beats, the better to protect the territory within their charge.

Officers while on duty are expected to remain vigilant and alert at all times, giving their undivided attention to their duties. They will refrain from entering into any extended conversations or discussions not directly connected with their immediate duties, and will especially avoid any unnecessary discussions on the subjects of war, politics and religion. The reason for this requirement is so apparent as to need no explanation under present unsettled conditions when our citizens are apt to be drawn into unpleasant controversies on these subjects.

Officers while on duty are expected to be kindly and courteous to all, but especially so to strangers requesting information, direction etc. The use of profane or indecent language is prohibited by law and officers are especially required to set an example in this regard and to refrain from the use of profane or other objectionable language in public.

Officers are required to enforce all the laws of State, County and City to the full extent of their authority and jurisdiction and in the manner provided by law for so doing. This applies especially to the laws of the State of Idaho and the City Ordinances relating and applying to the subjects of liquor, gambling, immoral women, lewdness, and good morals generally. These laws must be enforced to the letter and without regard to persons or consequences. The strictest compliance with these instructions is demanded.

The foregoing instructions may be supplemented by verbal orders, but shall not be abrogated or amended so as to in any manner detract from the force and effect thereof except by written, specific orders directly designating the whole or some specified portion of them.

Dated this ___ day of ____, A.D.1915.

Coeur d’Alene officially became a city on June 1, 1904, and on July 6, 1904, Patrick McGovern was appointed the City’s first Chief of Police. He was described as “big, over six feet tall, married with seven children, a quiet man, never saying much.”

The Police Department expanded to four officers on May 6, 1907. P.F. McGovern was Chief, Carl Kronblatt was night patrolman, and George Ott and E.G. Jackson were day patrolmen.

The City Council also voted to purchase a uniform for the police force. It was to be of blue cloth with brass buttons, caps for warm weather and helmets for cold.
Chief Greenberry “George” Evans

Employed: 1909-1928
Chief: 1911-1927
Chief Greenberry “George” Evans
Biography

On May 8, 1911, Patrick McGovern retired and G.K. Evans was appointed as Chief. Although the “G.K.” actually stood for Greenberry Kelly after his two grandmother’s maiden names, many people assumed the “G” stood for George.

Evans liked George better than Greenberry, so he kept the name. His daughter Florence, described him as “6’1” tall, 200 pounds in weight, and normally wearing black high top walking shoes, a black Stetson hat, and a loose coat with numerous pockets.

Finding no use for handcuffs or a holster, Chief Evans carried a Smith and Wesson 4-inch 38 Special revolver in his back pocket. He had the first official police dog in Coeur d’Alene, a spaniel named Cougar, who accompanied him when he patrolled the alleys at night.
Chief Mike Roche

Biography

Michael Roche was born on July 4th 1875 in County Tipperary, Ireland to Martin and Catherine (Cussen) Roche. He was one of five siblings. Mike had a sister Catherine, and brothers Patrick, Edward, and John. There is little known about his formative years while growing up in Northern Ireland. He signed on with the Royal Irish Constabulary (RIC) on January 16th 1900 and most likely completed his six and one half month training on or about August 1st, 1900.

Mike joined the RIC at Tipperary (South Riding) after being recommended by District Inspector MacDonald at Cashel. After training, he served in the RIC in County Wexford, and resigned from service on March 25th, 1902. The reason stated on his resignation was “to better himself”. Shortly after he resigned Mike left Ireland for America.

Mike traveled by ship (The Cedric) and entered the U.S. on June 16th 1902.

Mike obtained employment at the Boston Police Department for a short period of time after June of 1902. In September of 1903 he represented to immigration officials that he resided in Idaho. Mike came to Coeur d’Alene to live with his uncle James Roche. He worked for a period of time in local lumber mills and as a laborer.

Mike received his certificate of naturalization on June 5th of 1909. He met his wife Mary Kelleher (also Irish and from County Cork) while living in Boston. Mike and Mary were married at St. Thomas Catholic Church in Coeur d’Alene on August 30th, 1905.
Chief Mike Roche

Biography

Mike was hired by the Police Department on July 14th, 1909. In 1928 he was appointed to Chief of Police. Mike was a large man of 6’4” who spoke in a heavy Irish accent. He was good-natured and active in the community. He was known for being good with children, and he and Mary had four of their own. They had daughters Catherine Mary Roche born in 1906, Margaret Roche (Richardson) born in 1907, Agnes Magdalene Roche born in 1909, son John (Jack) Thomas Roche born in 1910, and son Martin James Roche born in 1912.

Their family home was at 938 6th St. and later at 1012 E. Coeur d'Alene Ave.

Wayne Smith of Coeur d’Alene recalled Mike fondly in a letter he presented to the Police Department in June of 2005. He stated that as a young boy he lived next door to Mike from 1933 to 1939. Wayne said he was kind of adopted by the family because they did a lot of things together. Wayne said Mike loved baseball and playing with his kids but still had ties to Irish customs at times. Mike used to smoke a corn cob pipe and walked with an Irish cane.

Wayne stated he did not think Mike ever drove a car because he always had a driver (patrolman Burt Hack) that brought him home in the police car. In the summer time Mike would ride his motorcycle around town.

Mike had a long and prestigious career with the Police Department.

On July 8th 1945 at the age of 70 Mike suffered a heart attack while on duty. He died on July 27th, 1945. Mike was known for his devotion to his job, and the community he served. His death was a great loss to the City of Coeur d’Alene.

Chief Wendy Carpenter

1977 - 2007

Chief:
2003 - 2007
Chief Wendy Carpenter was born in Spokane Washington in 1957. She attended elementary school in Spokane. Her family moved to Coeur d’Alene when she was a teenager, and she graduated from Coeur d’Alene High School.

Chief Carpenter joined the Coeur d’Alene City Police Department on January 11, 1977 and retired in 2007. With 30 years of service under her belt, she had a long distinguished career.

Hers is a story of firsts. She was the first female Sergeant, Lieutenant, Captain and Chief. Chief Carpenter worked her way up through the ranks with a dedication to achieving excellence.

The story of how she became a police officer starts at a Spokane Washington Racetrack where she exercised horses until the track was closed in 1976. During this period, she had the opportunity to meet and visit with many Spokane Police Officers. She thought their work sounded interesting, so she enrolled in the North Idaho College Law Enforcement Program in January 1977. She was also working full-time as a Reserve Officer in dispatch. After working in parking enforcement for a few years, she took the test to work as a patrol officer in 1986.
From then on Chief Carpenter worked in every facet of the police department. Her leadership role started as a Sergeant in Patrol. She then took over as the leader of the Kootenai County Drug Task Force, which is a multi-agency unit. She was a Commander of the Detective Division, and the Patrol Division with supervision over the many units within the two divisions. In 2004 she was appointed Chief by the Mayor and City Council. She held the position until her retirement in 2007.

Her leadership ability and high visibility as a role model was an inspiration to the women that make up this great department. Because of her work ethic and commitment to success, she has opened doors for our young female officers. Women in this department can explore a career path they never before imagined.

Coeur d’Alene Police entered a new era with Chief Carpenter. As we move forward with new leadership, we also look back and can clearly see how far we have become in changing the role of women in police.
